Warmer weather may seem a long way off, but spring – and the NTCI reunion on May 4, 2002 – will be here faster than you can say Red e3 Grey.

While tickets will be available at the door, this is the final notice to pre-register before reunion day. We're inviting all former NTCI students and staff back to 70 Roehampton Avenue to celebrate the school's 90th anniversary. The reunion is a one-day school-based celebration, with the focus on reconnecting with classmates and teachers and reliving old times.

There will be "decade rooms" with photos and displays, a variety show featuring skits and musical numbers by NT alumni and former staff (see page 3 for details), a silent auction, and the only chance you'll have between now and 2012 (NTCI's 100th Anniversary) to wander the halls and mingle with former classmates.

The back page of this newsletter contains all the reunion details. To make this reunion the best it can possibly be, we need you to register soon. Please complete and mail the enclosed registration form today. If you need additional copies for friends, both the registration form and this newsletter are available online. Just go to www.ntci.on.ca and look for the reunion link on the home page. See you on May 4th!

Can you donate to the silent auction?

The silent auction on reunion day will be a major fundraiser for the NTCI Foundation. When you arrive for the reunion, be sure to visit the cafeteria to look over the auction items and to make your bids.

While we've already received some wonderful donations of good and services for the auction, we need all the auction items we can get to make the event a success. If you have an item or service of value that you can donate to the auction (sports tickets, computer training, gift certificates, you name it), please email Karen Kwan at ntcilentauction@yahoo.ca or leave a message with the school at 416-393-9180.

WELCOME

Welcome back, alumni!

As a relative newcomer to this school, let me give you NT old-timers a few words of advice – don't miss this opportunity to come home.

When I came to North Toronto Collegiate as principal in 1999, I knew I was coming to a wonderful institution. Looking back from the vantage point of 2002, I realize I had little understanding of just how very special NT really is.

There are history and tradition here that are second to none in this city. They seep into you the moment you arrive, and they simply do not let go. The strength of that tradition is carried by every member of our teaching staff, and it's one of the reasons the standards of excellence that the school is known for continue to this day.

Not that there aren't some disadvantages to working in a school building with a long history: building repair issues take up time, and money for restorations is a small budget item in the Ministry of Education funding formula.

But the disadvantages pale when I walk down these halls. Grads and teachers from every decade are represented on the walls of this school. If you've ever walked through the school late in the evening, when few people are around, it's a humbling experience to read names, look at photos, and think of the thousands of individuals who passed through these doors every school day, and how the legacy of the school lives on within them.

You were one of those people, and when you come back to visit on May 4th, don't be surprised to discover there's a part of you still here. Welcome back!

Ashley Waltman's top 10 reasons why you should attend the NTCI 90th reunion

1. Marvel again at how an entire class fits in the swimming pool
2. Just this once, enter the school with all of your homework done
3. Mount the pommel horse or balance beam and rediscover why you abandoned gymnastics as a career choice
4. At the silent auction, purposely outbid the teacher who gave you a "D"
5. See how much you've grown—sit at a student's desk, then try to get up
6. Explain to current students why Elvis was king
7. Explain to current students who Elvis was
8. Realize your hair loss isn't nearly as bad as you thought
9. Impress former classmates – pick up your old cello and play "The Swan" like you mean it
10. Chew gum and see if anyone notices

Way off Broadway

The Show must go on

No North Toronto Collegiate reunion would be complete without a performance, and the 90th is no exception. Appropriately entitled The Show, this variety extravaganza promises to be a wonderful, wild, and totally unpredictable 60-minute show put on by student alumni and former staff.

The Show is being produced, co-ordinated, and brought to life by two former NT teachers who are certainly familiar with show time at the school – Ian Waldron (1979-2000) and Leslie Maher (1989-2001).

Both teachers were involved in a number of musical, drama, and variety productions while at NT, and both are thrilled to be coming back for yet another show.

“It will be lively, that I can promise you,” says Waldron, who had an active role in Collegiantics through the 1980s. “And there will be some surprises, planned and unplanned, I’m sure.”

While acts for The Show are still being auditioned (see box on this page), all decades will be represented, either by the performers themselves, or by the type of act they perform.

“We want this to reflect the good times that NT students and staff had over the years,” says Maher, who counts her involvement in productions such as The Fantasticks among the fondest memories of her career at the school. “We’re looking for all sorts of talent – dancers, musicians, actors, singers, you name it. But most of all we want a sense of fun.”

One of the fun guarantees will be the presence of an Alumni Stage Band, conducted by former music teacher Bob Krueger. The band will be made up of alumni stage band members, with a firm promise that the Stage Band’s greatest hit, Oom-Goo-Bah, will be on the playlist. Mr. Krueger warns all prospective members of this once-in-a-lifetime band, “You gotta have chops!”

There will also be a number by former NT staff, although the exact nature of the act is a closely guarded secret. “I can’t comment on the staff number,” says Maher, “except to say that it will simply scream with talent.”

Talent or not, you won’t want to miss the fun. Be sure to include your ticket order for The Show when you register for the reunion.

Do you have a show number?

Perhaps you appeared in Hi Jinks or other similar shows at NT. Or you just want to strut your stuff for alumni and friends. Either way, if you want to be part of The Show, here’s what we’re looking for:

- Serious and not-so-serious performers with prepared, self-contained numbers of about 3 minutes in length
- Fun numbers with broad appeal that reflect the good times that NT students and staff had over the decades
- Performers (solo or group) who are able to supply their own props and costumes.

Performers will need to be available for technical rehearsal from 9 A.M. to 1 P.M. on reunion day, with the first show at 3:30 P.M. We welcome inquiries from all decades (50s and 60s alumni, are you out there?). While we may not be able to include all acts, we want to hear from you. Please call or email to arrange a “telephone audition”:

Ian Waldron Tel. 416-216-0144
ian.waldron@rogers.com

Calling all Stage Band alumni!

If you still play, if you still have the chops, and if you continue to hear Oom-Goo-Bah in all your wildest dreams, be sure to sign up for a day of adventure and musical fun: practice all morning and perform all afternoon! Call or email to reserve your spot on the roster:

Bob Krueger Tel. 705-887-1887
nanook.krueger@sympatico.ca

Calling all stage crew!

Were you a member of the Stage Crew during your years at North Toronto? If you want to relive some backstage moments, here’s your chance. Mark Maitman, NT Grad of 1971 and English Department staff member from 1980-1992, is Stage Crew co-ordinator for The Show. While many of the current NT Stage Crew will be on hand, we’ll need lots of help from Alumni on performance day.

If you want to help us out on Stage Crew, please contact:

Mark Maitman Tel. 705-277-3143
breakthru@sympatico.ca

Looking for show tickets?

You can order tickets for The Show on the Registration Form for the reunion. Some tickets may be available on reunion day, but we cannot guarantee availability. Tickets are $10 each, with two shows – 3:30 P.M. and 5:30 P.M.

THE GOOD SPORTS OF NORTH TORONTO

While North Toronto Collegiate has always enjoyed an excellent academic reputation – with an equally strong showing in arts and music – the tremendous achievement of our school's alumni in the world of sports is often overlooked.

From hockey, to football, to track and field, NT athletes have excelled both during their time at the school and in the years that followed. And with the strong relationships which often develop between coach and athlete, it's not surprising that members of NT's physical education department have fond memories of their students.

"When I heard that great athletes of the school would be featured in the next issue of the Foundation News, I knew I had one more duty to perform," says Bob Gladish, who was at the school in two stints, from 1931 to 1936 as a student, and as a physical education teacher from 1942 to 1960.

Bob provided us with a four-page handwritten letter describing many of the outstanding athletes he taught. His only regret is the absence of outstanding female athletes in his list. "Unfortunately, in the era I taught, girls' athletics was restricted to intramurals and invitational matches with other schools."

Current NT staff member Danny Russell, who began teaching at the school in 1971, has seen a number of grads gain professional or high amateur status in their sports after high school. "I've been very fortunate to have coached some amazing talent over the years," says Russell. "And some of these kids were extremely gifted in other areas as well. In the '70s, Jim Cuddy and Greg Keeler of Blue Rodeo fame were excellent football players, as was Andy Maize of the Skydiggers."

While the list is far from complete, here is a small sample of some of the great athletes who have passed through the doors of NT.

Class of '51 supper club reunion

Back in 1945, two new music classes were started under the baton of Jack Dow. The young ladies in these classes formed what was fondly known as a "Supper Club." They met every Friday evening, had dinner together, and then headed out on their respective dates.

When high school days ended, and they went on to various pursuits, the dinners were held once a month, and, eventually, once a year. The ladies have continued meeting for dinner over the years and, on June 22, 2001, celebrated their 55th Reunion – 50 years after graduation.

Some have moved too far away to attend, one joined the group a few years after its inception, one is a sister invited for the evening, and three, Lorraine (Howison) Crapper, Mance Carberry and Elizabeth Rawlinson, have passed away.

Hidden 1942 diary of NTCI student found

In November of last year, the NTCI Foundation received an interesting email from Anthony Cesta, a North Toronto resident living at 132 Roselawn Avenue.

Anthony was renovating one of the rooms in his house when he came across an unexpected surprise. "The house is 75 years old and the closet in that bedroom has steps that go up to the attic," said Anthony. "Tucked in behind the steps was what looked like a book. It had a couple of layers of paint on it. People must have painted right over it, not noticing it was there."

Surprised and intrigued, Anthony unwedged the book and discovered that it was a diary from 1942 belonging to Joyce Venning, Class 2E, North Toronto Collegiate Institute. "You could tell how old it was," said Anthony. "The inside cover had a list of holidays, and the King's birthday was one of them. I thought – the King's birthday, what the heck is that?" he laughed.

Anthony glanced through the diary, coming across references to afternoon movie shows at the Capitol Theatre and Joyce Venning walking across farmers' fields to go to a picnic. "I can't imagine a time when there were farmers' fields along Avenue Road to where the 401 is now," Anthony enthused.

Anthony was determined to find the owner of the diary and return this "found treasure." He searched through many telephone directory sites on the web, and phoned every Venning in the Toronto phone book, asking if they were related to Joyce Venning.

Although people were genuinely interested in his story, unfortunately no one could help him find Joyce Venning. "I assumed that she probably got married and changed her name. But I thought I could at least find a brother or cousin. No luck," said Anthony.

The NTCI Foundation database has no record of Joyce Venning, so for now the mystery of where she is and how she lost the diary remains. For Anthony Cesta, he'd love to see the diary back in the right hands. "It could be a very precious memory for Joyce and her family."

JOYCE VENNING, NTCI CLASS OF 1945 – ARE YOU OUT THERE?

Calling all alumni! Help us find Joyce Venning, class of 1945. We have her diary in safekeeping at the NTCI Alumni Foundation, and are looking for any information which may help us return this precious possession to her or her family.

The back page of Joyce Venning's diary lists teacher Eric Albert McCann, 30 Binscarth, Toronto, Sub.-Lieut. Clare Shaver, and Doris Burrows, 832 Mt. Pleasant. Perhaps these names can help us discover where Joyce Venning went after high school, or where she is now.

If you have any information on how to contact Joyce Venning, her family, or friends, please email us at ntcifoundation@yahoo.com or contact the school at 416-393-9180.

Director making good at Toronto Centre for the Arts

Sam Rosenthal, class of 1988, has fond memories of North Toronto, especially his involvement in drama, football, and student council. "Everything except actual school," he says.

Rosenthal's broad-based school experience seems to have paid off for him, since he credits the great drama program at NT as starting his journey as an actor. The journey led him to Ryerson Theatre School, then York University for the Directing Program, and finally to his position today as Co-artistic Director of Tribal Productions, resident theatre company at the Toronto Centre for the Arts (formerly the Ford Centre for the Performing Arts).

Sam Rosenthal formed Tribal Productions in 1993 with friend Eli Lukawitz and Sam's then wife, hence the name Tri-bal, meaning three in balance. The company produced plays in various theatres around Toronto, including the Annex Theatre, Factory Theatre, and the Theatre Centre.

In 1998, Tribal happened to be putting on a show at the Ford Centre for the Performing Arts during the same week Garth Drabinsky, another NTCI alumnus, and his Livent Productions left the Ford Centre. The city took over the facility and asked Tribal Productions to become the resident theatre company at the newly-named Toronto Centre for the Arts.

For Rosenthal, being resident company at the Toronto Centre for the Arts is a great opportunity to fill a hole in the Toronto theatre market. "There's a big discrepancy between the huge Mirvish productions at the Royal Alex and the 'funky' Tarragon and Factory Theatre shows," says Rosenthal. "We see ourselves as occupying a middle ground, in the vein of off-Broadway, where you know the quality is going to be high but the ticket price better than seeing Miss Saigon."

High quality shows abound at Tribal, with last year's Of Mice and Men garnering a Dora nomination at the Toronto Theatre Awards. This year, one time-honoured play Tribal is tackling is Death of a Salesman, Tony award winner for best play in 1949. It's a show Sam has always wanted to do, ever since studying it in English class at NTCI. He describes his teacher, Mr. McGillivray, as a key inspiration.

"A big turning point for me was having a choice between going on a field trip to Stratford with McGillivray's class, or playing in a football game," says Rosenthal. "To my own surprise I chose Stratford. That was basically it for football – at Stratford I saw my calling, and I've never looked back."

Special Death of a Salesman offer for Alumni

Sam Rosenthal and his theatre company Tribal Productions are producing Death of a Salesman at the Toronto Centre for the Arts from April 19 to May 5, 2002 – with Sam playing the role of Biff Loman.

In honour of the NTCI reunion, alumni ordering tickets for Death of a Salesman on April 30, May 1, and May 2 will see $10 of every ticket purchased donated to the NTCI Foundation. Tickets are $30 each.

GROUP DISCOUNT FOR ALUMNI

Even better, organize a group of 20 alumni or more, and you'll get a discounted ticket price of $25 each, with the same $10 donation to the NTCI Foundation. With a beautiful reception area and bar inside the theatre complex, a night at the theatre is an excellent way for alumni groups to get together for an evening event close to the reunion.

Call 416-733-9388 (extension 6204) to order tickets, and be sure to mention that you are a North Toronto alumnus. If you do make a group order, let us know so we can pass on the information to other alumni. Just email us at nt90reunion@hotmail.com

Arts update at NT

In the May 2001 issue of Foundation News, we featured several NT grads with careers in media and the arts. We asked you to tell us about other grads we may have missed. Based on your feedback, here's an arts update.

Looking at Toronto-based grads, Diane Lewarne (1979) currently teaches singing, acting, and music theory in addition to her role as mother of two young children. Diane is a former member of the Canadian Opera Company and was a prominent cast member of Phantom of the Opera for over 2,100 performances in Canada and the United States. Deirdre Kelly (1979) is the long-time dance critic and reporter for the Globe & Mail.

Edwina Follows (1979) is a screenwriter for many of Canada's top television programs. Her feature film, The Dinosaur Hunter, starring Christopher Plummer, recently won best film at the Los Angeles Children's Film Festival. Alyssa Wright (1989) is a Toronto-based cellist, working as an orchestral, chamber music, and solo performer, as well as a session and studio musician.

Sheila Heti (1995) was named "Best Emerging Author" in Now Magazine's 2001 Reader's Poll Award for her collection, The Middle Stories. Co-winner of the award was another NT student, Camilla Gibb (1986) for her novel, Mouthing the Words.

Moving west, legendary folk singer and activist Bob Bossin (1965) lives on Gabriola Island, B.C. with his wife, two kids, and (at last count) two dogs. The east coast has also attracted NT grads. Binnie (Payzant) Brennan (1980) lives in Halifax and is violist for Symphony Nova Scotia. Crossing the border, Alison Vuchnich (1989) has moved to Washington, D.C. and works as a freelance journalist.
